MISS CAROL JAMES MISS KSU 1984-85

On October 5, 1984, the 23-year-old Miss Carol James from Louisville, Kentucky, was crowned 1984-85 Miss Kentucky State University. Miss James recalls, "When I was crowned, it was one of the best things that ever happened to me. Because of that moment, I realized my KSU family loved and honored me for who I was. They gave me the responsibility of serving and representing this wonderful and revere university." Miss James is an Early Childhood Education major.

President Raymond M. Burse and former 1982-83 Miss KSU Grace Burdett crown Miss James as the new queen.

MISS VIVIAN LASLEY FIRST ATTENDANT

MISS KIM WELLS SECOND ATTENDANT

The distinguished title of Miss Kentucky University is earned and respected. To be chosen by the student body is not only an honor, but the highest compliment. Each year beautiful inspirations vie for the title, but only one can receive the crown. However, the divine privilege is shared by the attendants and court. Each lady should be proud when she becomes part of the cherished family. To Miss James, Miss Lasley, Miss Wells, and the members of the court, we extend the sincerest congratulations.

Virginia Union Defeats KSU

On Oct. 5, 1984, KSU Homecoming fans witnessed the defeat of their home team to Virginia Union. KSU fell to Virginia Union, 26 to 12. However, Homecoming activities were not hampered. With the recognition of the 1934 National Football Champs, the coronation of Miss KSU Carol James, the parade, the parties, and other activities, students and alumni carried home many memories of the 1984 Homecoming.

The Pershing Rifles and ROTC Seek High Challenges

While some students received their knowledge from the printed word, others braved the outdoors to reach their fullest potentials. The Pershing Rifles joined forces with ROTC and together they spent weekends repelling, attending mini camp, and seeking other adventures. In the end, each found that the ultimate challenge rests within oneself.

Welcome to Our Home!

There's no place like home, but some KSU students found a second home outside of their apartments and dorms, the Carl M. Hill Student Center. Whether one wants to bowl, play pool, pause a moment to relax, attend a dance, or catch up on the latest news, the student center provides the informal comfortable surroundings.

Cafeteria Provides Pleasures For Eyes and Appetite

Students . . .

Last autumn the cafeteria was moved from Underwood Hall to the ground level of the Carl M. Hill Student Center. The new cafeteria, which was completed in a year and five months and cost $2.6 million, can seat 360 individuals. Whether one comes to eat, study, or converse with friends, the new cafeteria provides a feast for the eyes and the appetite.

Where Has All the Money Gone?

In his spare time, Billy Parris designs leather articles. This hobby has provided him with extra money and an outlet for his creative talents. Billy's skill is self taught.

Whether students were full-time or part-time, one thing was for certain, they needed money for tuition. While some students were fortunate enough to have private funds, others "invented" ways in which to earn their needed funds. Many students held conventional jobs like work study, sales position at a local shop, or counter person at a restaurant, but others dared to develop alternate resources which to earn the mighty dollar.

And The Band Played On

Many hours and much dedication are needed to keep a band performing at its best. KSU students played during cold football games, overbearing temperatures, stood many hours, and pounded miles of asphalt just so they could deliver the KSU sound.

Poet Robert Hass kept a Bradford Hall audience quiet and attentive as he read some of his poems.

Dr. Paul Ciholas, the director of Integrative Studies, addressed the audience about the value of Liberal Studies.

Dr. Julian Earls told an Honors Convocation that graduates must return what they have learned to the community.

Dr. Willie Legette, a political science assistant professor, pointed out that despite recent gains in legislative representation among blacks, not many benefits accrue to Black voters. He used the South Carolina legislative as an example.

Bernice Braid, a scholar and lecturer, addressed a university convocation about Habits of Mind.

Parents Weekend – 1984

Kentucky State University opens doors for many students, providing an avenue which their parents may or may not have had the opportunity to explore. For the parents who were not already acquainted with the university, Parents Weekend provided the perfect opportunity for the parents to become better acquainted with the higher institution of learning. For the parents who already had a background with KSU, the two days offered the chance for old acquaintances to become friends again.

New friendships were formed during Parents Weekend.

Parents discuss course possibilities with a professor.

Are you sure we're in the right place?

Whatever the situation, paperwork is part of the course.

Housing director, Mr. James McBride, welcomes parents.

Parents were able to discuss their sons' and daughters' courses with professors.

Faculty, Students Honor Black History Month

February 5, 1985 marked the beginning of the month-long celebration in observance of Black History Month. With discussions by distinguished novelist and anthropologist Zora Neale Hurston, political science professor at Atlanta University and KSU's Lilly Scholar-in-Residence, Dr. Mack Jones and Willie Elliot, director of social work at Ashland College in Ohio, faculty and students had a well-balance discussion forum. Additional features, including the Berea College Art Exhibit and "Celebrating Blackness through Poetry, Drama, and Music," a program of student talent, the entire month was alive with celebration.

Faculty and student presentations marked Black History Month. President Raymond M. Burse spoke at the First Corinthian Baptist Church. The theme for the service was Afro-American Family as Educator. Dr. William Turner also presented Blacks in Appalachia: A New Theme for Black Social History. A workshop production of the opera, Porgy and Bess, was performed by KSU students.

The University Concert Choir performs for Black History Month.

The Rites of Spring

Students packed Clipper Skateland from 11 p.m. to 1 a.m. on Friday night.

During the weekend of April 12-14, KSU students put their books away and celebrated spring weekend.

With extended open house hours which began on Friday, students enjoyed the extra freedom. Then at 11 p.m. students began a two hour party at Clipper Skateland.

Saturday dawned bright as four buses full of students trekked to Kings Island. After spending the day there, students came back to campus to an early morning breakfast which was served in the cafeteria. After students finished breakfast, they were treated to a dance which was held in the ballroom of the Carl M. Hill Student Center.

Proceeds from the Kings Island trip were donated to the Ethiopia famine victims. According to Student Government Association President Karen Reynolds over $500 was raised.

Braver skaters attempted several stunts while others watched.

"Step right up, the winner takes all!" The bowling game was one of the booths which attracted game players of all ages.

A moment of relaxation was needed by these students.

Adventurous souls were not afraid to brave the executing lash of the Cobra.

International Festival 1985

Below: The Homemakers Association, through the cooperation of University of Kentucky's Extension Service, display their crafts.

Decorative horns including the boat, right, and the painted tiger, above right, were two highlights of the International Festival.

On Tuesday, April 23, 1985, KSU held its second annual International Festival in the Carl M. Hill Student Center's lobby.

KSU faculty and students were treated to food, representatives, and literature from other countries. Displays from Thailand, India, Pakistan, Guyana, Nigeria, and other nations were present.

The student talent contest which highlighted music, dance, and poetry recitations let all observers experience international culture.

WVBA Welcomes Cherelle

Her limousine drew up outside of Hathaway Hall. From the chariot emerged a goddess; several admirers trailed behind, living for Cherelle's every movement, hoping to catch a special word or look.

The rhythm and blues singer from Detroit had other ideas. Smiling knowingly, Cherelle's pace was not broken until she reached her destination, WVBA.

Cherelle's debut album, Fragile, which has progressively advanced up the charts, was produced by Jerry Lewis and Jimmy Jam of the band, The Time.

Following the album, she appeared as a backup for Alexander O'Neal in the video Innocent. Cherelle's debut video was also produced by O'Neal.

Thorobreds Finish With 3-8 Season

The Big Green Machine strives for a defeat.

Into the darkness, a light will shine. With a struggling team of underclassmen and a first-year coach, William Williamson, the Thorobreds' football season was a challenge from the beginning. The senior talents of Daryl Taltoan, Eric Calhoun, Andre Creech, Ken Joiner, Henry Blair, and William Burse help mature the developing squad. The combination locked into place when KSU defeated Butler University after a rough beating by Mississippi Valley State. The winning combination happened again when KSU conquered Lincoln University. With the majority of the offensive lineup returning for the 1985-86 football season, the Thorobreds are looking forward to an outstanding upcoming year.

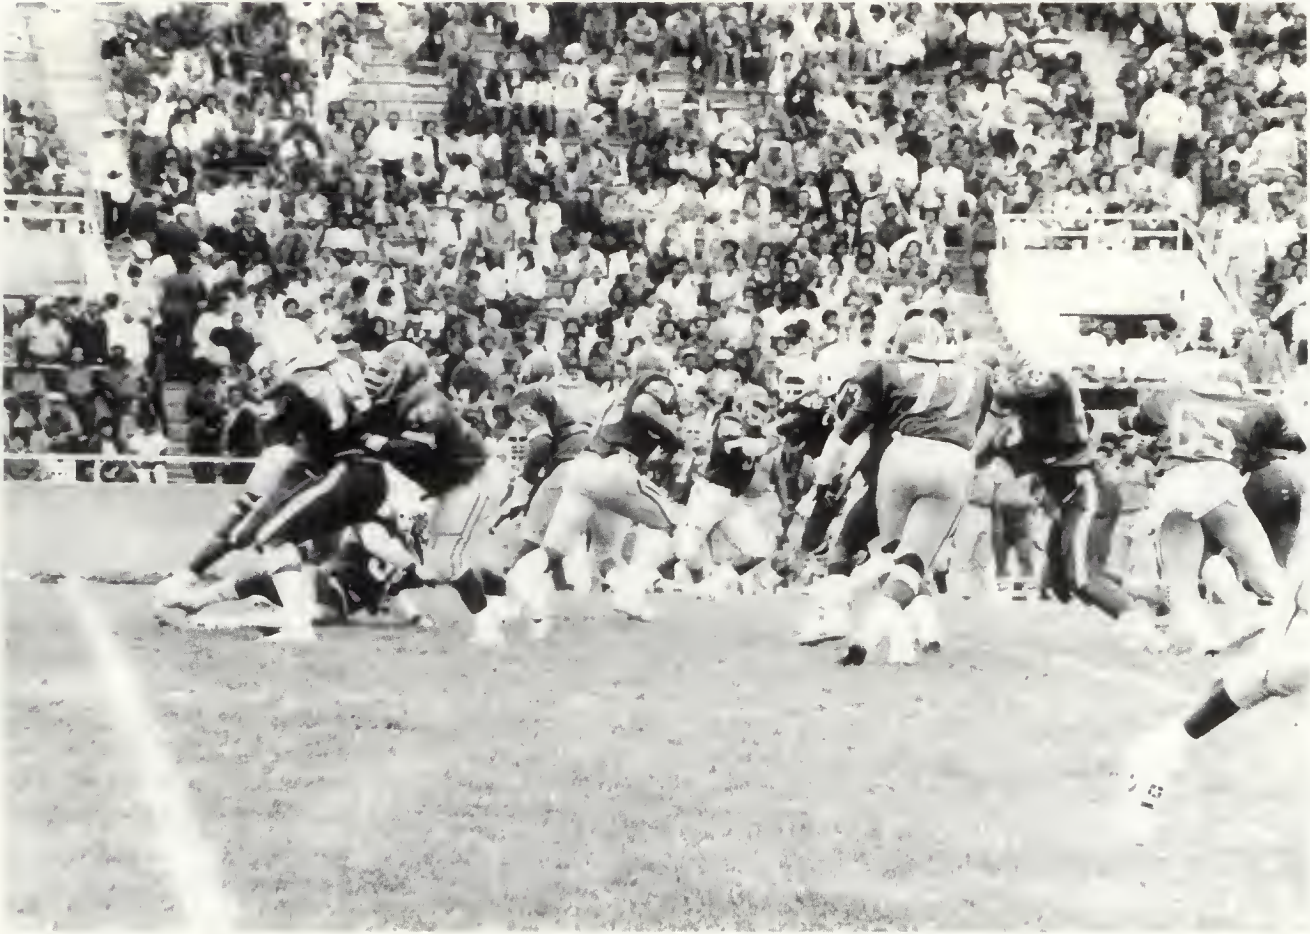

This is Thorobred country!

45, you had better hope you stay alive!

Jimmy Stewart and Reggie Beal tackle for a defeat.

Phil Mack shows the opposition that you don't fool around with the Thorobreds!

Let's get this straight. We're supposed to stop them, right?

KSU Record

Every senior who leaves KSU carries the Thorobred background with him. Fred Bowles and Keith Williamson can share this background with pride. Coach Richard Skaggs comments, "To say we will miss our two seniors, Keith Williamson and Fred Bowles is, at best, an understatement. What they have accomplished in their careers has been phenomenal. There have been only a select few who have played basketball at Kentucky State that have ever accomplished as much. If we can fill our program, in the future, with the same qualities Keith and Fred possess, we should have a great team."

Thorobreds Finish With 12-15 Season

The 1984 basketball season was marked with its highs and lows. The Thorobreds finished with a 12-15 record. After early season wins over Anderson and Grace, the Thorobreds were defeated by Lewis. The season was quickly recovered when KSU beat IPFW and Berea.

The Thorobreds' luck turned again as they challenged Bellarmine, Eastern Kentucky, and University of Wisconsin. Then the Thorobreds thought they had recovered lost ground when they came back to defeat Central State. However, the winning streak was then stolen by Centre Salem. For three more games, Murray State, Northern Kentucky, and University of Char., the Thorobreds were plagued with losses.

The middle of the season brought a brief recovery with the Thorobreds earning a hard-fought win over Transylvania. The Thorobreds would suffer six more defeats, Bellarmine, Oakland, Lincoln, University of Missouri, Campbellsville, Georgetown, and Oakland City, before they would capture another win.

Like the Thorobred which makes its move in the home-stretch, KSU concluded its season with four consecutive wins, Northern Kentucky, Brescia, IPFW, and Central State.

True to their name, the Thorobreds represented their school well, and according to Coach Richard Skaggs, the upcoming season holds even more promise.

RAYMOND M. BURSE —
A DYNAMIC, ACTIVE
KSU PRESIDENT

As Kentucky State University looks to its 100th birthday, the eyes of the state, community, and school will be focused on the leadership of one man — President Raymond M. Burse.

The role will be challenging and demanding, but it will be one which the former Harvard Law School graduate will handle with the same ease as all he has encountered since his appointment in 1982.

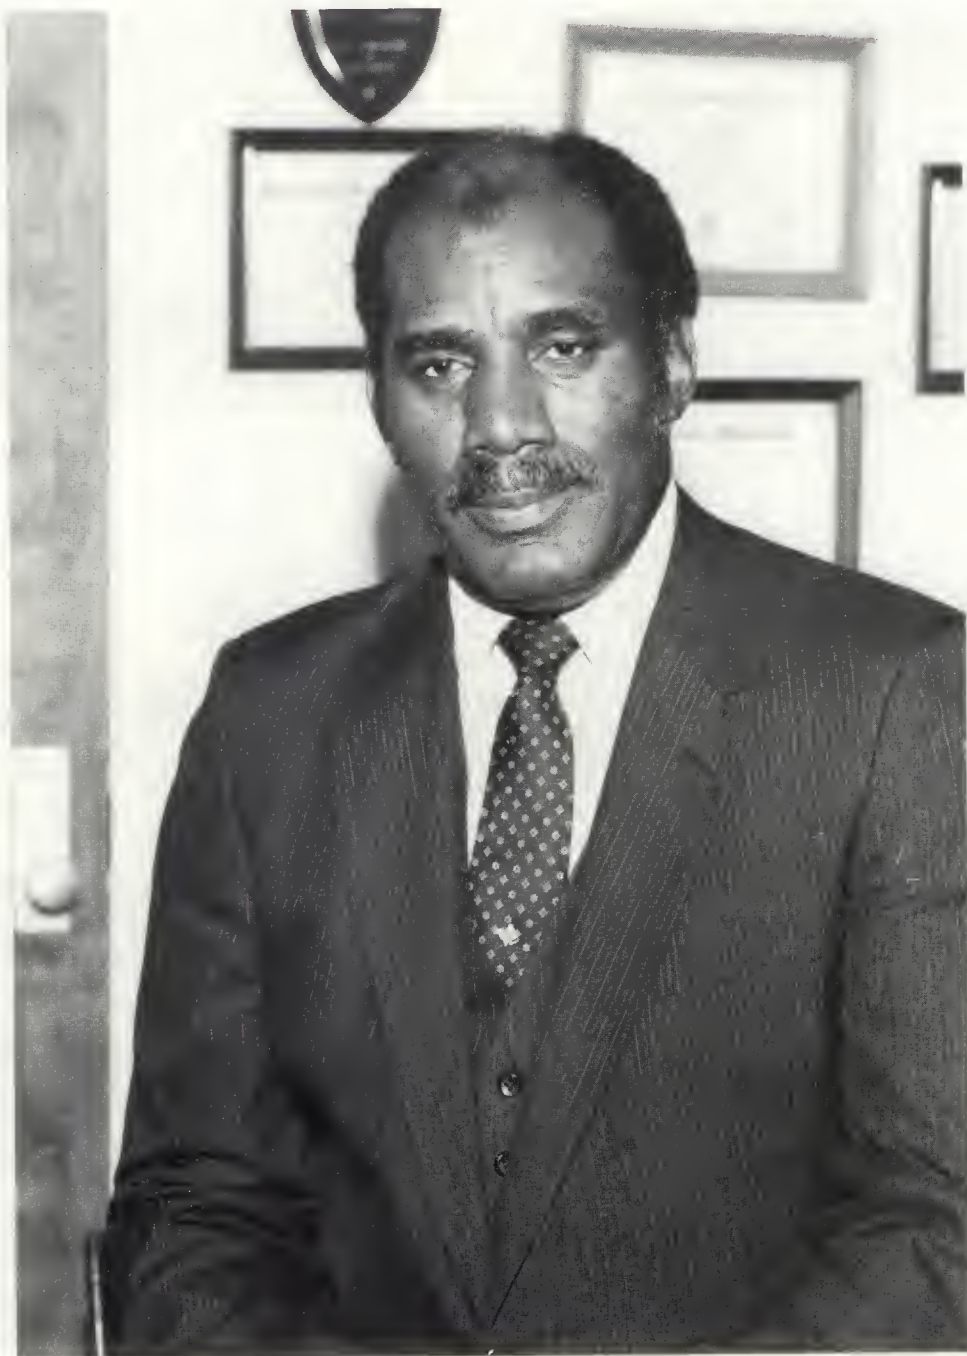

With the Centennial Celebration marking the end of one era, KSU will embark on its second century of onward and upward education under the guidance of a president who is ready for today, and who prepares for tomorrow.

DEDICATION

MR. ERIC CALHOUN

Mr. Eric Calhoun will always be remembered for his outgoing personality and ever-present smile. The twenty-two-year old was a member of the KSU football team, and he frequently could be found on the basketball court and at the swimming pool. A true lover of sports, Eric transmitted this excitement to all children that he coached at the park. Eric was a member of the 7-11 Club. The FHS graduate was also a member of the St. John Baptist Church.

MR. MARK MILLIKEN

Mr. Mark Milliken was born on September 3, 1961, in Graves, Kentucky. Mark graduated from Paduach Tilghman High School in 1979. He enrolled in KSU in the fall semester of 1979, majoring in Music Education. Mark sang bass with the Concert Choir and Gospel Ensemble, played Bass Guitar with the Jazz Ensemble, and was the Trombone Section Leader in the Kentucky State University Marching Band. As a member of the Kentucky Army National Guard, Mark earned his "jump wings" at Airborne School during the summer of 1983. The following May, Mark was commissioned a Second Lieutenant in the United States Army. Mark was a member of Mayfield Baptist Church.

EDITOR'S NOTE

During the last four years, Kentucky State University has taken on a new face. There have been major transitions within the university, from faculty and staff to students and curriculum. We are growing. Every publication which leaves this university is not only a reflection of the publisher, but of the institution as a whole. This year's annual is no exception.

We, the yearbook staff, have taken on the responsibility of trying to produce a quality yearbook. This has been challenging, demanding, and nerve-racking at times. Through it all, the staff strived to make contacts, take photographs, and meet deadlines. With the cooperation of staff members, Ms. Reneta Clay, Ms. Gail Thomas, Ms. Terri Mitchell, Mr. Neal Bowden, Mr. James Coles, Mr. Anthony Howard, Mr. Eric Scruggs, Mr. Bruce Trent, Mr. Arthur Williams, and Mr. Gill Finley, the 1984-85 Thorobred came together in record time.

We would like to thank all individuals who invested their assistance, guidance, and time. President Raymond Burse, Dr. Johnny Sheppard, Mr. Joseph Gravely, Ms. Jane Sparks, Mr. Virgil Collier and Mr. Devin Rowland made contributions too numerous to list.

A special thank you goes to the staff of Public Information, Mr. Joseph Burgess, Ms. Janet Hoover, and Mr. William Hamilton.

And finally, thank you to our advisors, Mr. David Stringer and Mrs. Linda Kyle, who brought us all together.

A final note to those who may criticize; we challenge you to produce a better book. The finished product is only as good as its contributions.

Thank you,

A handwritten signature in dark ink that reads "Darryl Dubose". The signature is fluid and cursive, with a large, stylized 'D' at the beginning.
